

Biography for Cary Skaggs

Cary Steven Skaggs, age 39, was raised in Muleshoe, TX. He attended school in Muleshoe where he graduated in 1990. He went into the US Air Force in November of 1990 as a nuclear weapons specialist. He traveled all over the world with his military career. This also gave him the opportunity to be a member of the USAF shooting team.

His shooting career began at a very young age when he got his first gun at 5 years old. His dad taught him all the safety and accuracy of guns. He competed in 4H competitions at the local and state levels. After competing throughout high school and his military career, he attended and graduated WTAMU in Canyon with his BSN. He is now a registered nurse at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo in the Resource Department. Cary has been a nurse since 2002.

His love of the sport of shooting has never died. He has worked and managed gun clubs in various places: Missouri, Ft. Worth, and Amarillo. His adventure for competition he has traveled all over Texas and many states to include New Mexico, Kansas, Utah, Wyoming, and Washington. Cary has won several state championships in his class in Texas, Washington, and Colorado. He has competed in trap, skeet, five-stand, and sporting clays. Cary is also a licensed handgun carrier, completing the necessary training.

Cary is very supportive of all shooting sports and emphasizes not only accuracy, but also safety and fellowship of the sport.
